Wood-Processing

Areas Damaged by

Federal Decrees

The news from Washington tells that both houses of the congress are in revolt against anti-inflationary measures that have hurt business in widely-separated sections of the country. For instance:

The automobile industry complains that Regulation W by the Federal Reserve Board, limiting automobile credit contracts to not more than one-third down payment and the balance in 15 months, has damaged sales.

And lumber and allied wood-working industries of our own section are feeling the backlash of the Federal Reserve Board's crackdown on home-building credit.

But Washington seems more interested in the complaint from the automobile men than the one from the lumber trade—although it is serious here in Hope that if the wood-working industries are paralyzed the market for automobiles and all other commodities will be sharply restricted regardless how lenient the sales contracts are made.

This week the House Banking Committee voted to instruct the Federal Reserve Board to loosen its installment credit on automobiles, extending the balance payments to 18 months instead of 15—but the same committee didn't do very much for the wood industry.

The committee did refuse to give the FRB power to extend credit controls over property already built (with private funds), but it did nothing about the credit situation on new construction—and without some action on this the weakening market for wood products may get worse.

Hope and its trade area have a tremendous stake in our various mills—the local men who work in them, the landowners who sell timber, and the haulers who bring the lumber to market. This has been a booming business until now. But now the government has cut down on the flow of credit which finances new homes and foots the bill for purchase of mill products.

If you read a couple of recent editorials in this column you know what I'm talking about. The credit that the government has cut off isn't the taxpayers' money—it's private investment money, and the government yanked it out from under the house-building trade by an about-face. That's the story, repeating from editorials earlier this month.

These big investment houses, building insurance companies, had billions of dollars in federal bonds at 2 and 2 1/2 per cent interest. The bonds were at par or better, so every once in a while the investment houses would sell off some of their 2 and 2 1/2 per cent securities and put them in 4 and 4 1/2 per cent real estate mortgages.

Up to this time the Federal Reserve Board had considered it was obligated to keep U. S. bonds at par, and when occasion demanded the FRB would go into the market and buy up bonds, supporting the price. But one day the FRB decided there was too big a boom in housing, and it cut down on private credit. It simply quit supporting the market on U. S. bonds.

Immediately one of the best of the U. S. bond issues fell from above par—100 to 97. Big private investors wanting to put money into 4 and 4 1/2 per cent real estate mortgages would have to take a principal loss of $3 on the $100 in order to get rid of their government bonds and pulled out of the home-building business.

Therefore we have trouble ahead of us, right here in Hope—and Washington can be persuaded to compromise on the Federal Reserve Board's action.

I see no reason why our community shouldn't make strong representations in the matter. Wood is to us what steel is to Pittsburgh and the automobile is to Detroit. Washington has big ears for a whisper from steel—we may have to shout pretty loud to make 'em hear anything from the lumber country—but it's due for a try.

Seattle Crash Takes 5 of 10 Crewmen

Seattle, June 22.—(P)—A four-engine navy Privateer airplane crashed in the mudflats near the Whidbey Island naval air station yesterday noon, killing five of its crew of 10 men.

Of the remaining five who were injured, one was in critical condition.

Naval investigators still were unable to say how the Seattle-based plane happened to crash. Wreckage was strewn for more than 100 yards. Eyewitnesses said some bodies were thrown 50 yards by the impact.

Skagit Bay, where the plane crashed, is about 50 miles north of here.

Bodies were towed through shallow water in life rafts to navy crash boats unable to nose closer to the scene because of an extremely low tide. A coast guard helicopter took the injured one at a time to a hospital at Oak Harbor on Whidbey Island.

Red Air Force Again Beaten by Allied Jets

Tokyo, June 22.—(P)—The Red air force was beaten for the fifth day this week in two roaring jet battles over North Korea today. American Sabre jets shot down two Russian-made jets and damaged three, the U. S. Fifth Air Force announced.

That raised Red losses the week to 11 planes shot down, one probably destroyed and 17 damaged—a total of 29.

Eighty-nine jets were involved in the two battles, which were fought within 12 hours of the first fire bomb attack on United Nations troops.

On the ground, U. N. patrols Friday ran into what appeared to be the Reds' first line of defense on the western front. Allied officers there predict a limited Communist counteroffensive by Monday.

Front line dispatchers reported Chinese showered artillery and mortar fire on an allied patrol north of Inchon. That, for the second successive day forced back U. N. units probing toward Pyongyang in the old Red "iron triangle."

The Reds didn't try to interfere with patrols going around Kne-song, far to the west. The town was entered Thursday but not by returning units Friday.

Reds made three small attacks on the east central front Friday, but didn't get anywhere. Their air force was no more successful.

Thirty red nosed MIG-15s roared out of Manchuria and across the Yalu river Friday morning to renew the jet war after a one day lull. Twenty-eight Sabre jets swooped down on them 30 miles from the Manchurian border.

Two MIGs were shot down and two damaged in the engagement fought at the comparatively low level of 10,000 feet.

Another MIG was damaged in a second battle in the same area about north. Six Sabre jets took on an estimated 25 MIGs in that fight.

The Fifth Air Force did not say whether any American jets were lost.

The Far East air forces announced 245 American planes have been lost in the war, which will be a year old Monday, and 301 Communist planes destroyed or damaged.

The Express story quoted a man who had been Burgess' room mate for 14 years as saying Burgess met the American medical student on the Queen Mary on his way back to London, after having been recalled from a minor post in the British embassy in Washington.

The roommate said Burgess told him of his plan to take a holiday in France with the young American, beginning May 25, but that at 5:30 p. m. that day, the diplomat received a telephone call which appeared to distress him, the Express said. The account quoted the roommate:

"I gathered Burgess was talking to MacLean. After the phone call, Guy was very upset. I heard an other conversation in which he indicated that a married friend had got into serious trouble in Paris and needed help. I assumed he meant MacLean."

Burgess left the flat soon afterwards, saying he was going to MacLean. After the phone call, Guy was very upset. I heard an other conversation in which he indicated that a married friend had got into serious trouble in Paris and needed help. I assumed he meant MacLean."

Burgess was a 100% pilot, the Express said.

Howard County Peach Crop Starts Moving

The University of Arkansas institution will hold its 23rd Annual Family Study Day on Friday, with a full program planned for both men and women. The men will be taken on a tour of the farm, where they will see research results on pasture improvement for meat production, watermelon breeding, use of overhead irrigation on vegetables, and forest improvement practices.

Women visitors on Friday will see demonstrations in meal planning and preparation, landscaping and yard improvement, flower arrangement, and home craft furnishings. The entire group will meet in the afternoon for a panel discussion on the recent White House Conference on family life.

Proceeding the main visitors on Thursday, the station will hold a special program for veterans on-the-farm trainees. In addition to the events scheduled for Friday, the veterans also will see research results on peach varieties and soil conservation studies. The veterans' wives will have the same program on the Friday agenda for returning units Friday.

Dakar, French West Africa, June 22.—(UPI)—A Pan American Airways Constellation carrying 30 persons from South Africa to New York was missing.

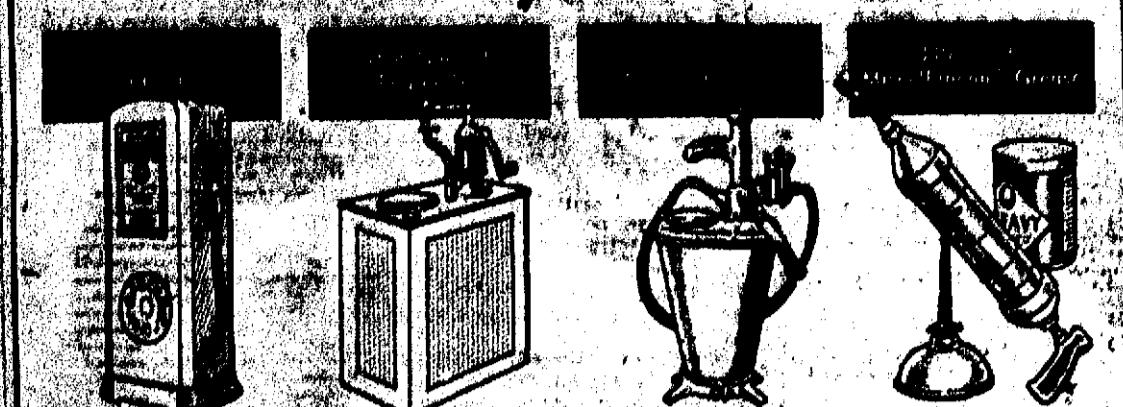

It was believed to have crashed in the steaming jungles of Liberia.

The plane left radio contact after passing over Roberts Field at Montevideo, Liberia. It ran into a violent rain storm and radioed at 3:30 a. m. (1830 p. m. EDT) that it was returning to Montevideo in 15 minutes to land.

Nothing has been heard from British and French crews since. Work teams have been sent to the jungles and Ivory Coast but without finding any trace of the plane.

Another Radio Hearing on State Station

Washington, June 22—(AP)—The hearing involving the future location of a clear channel radio frequency assigned to Arkansas opens next Monday before a communications commission examiner.

Specifically the hearing is on conflicting applications of Radio Broadcasting Co., Inc., operator of Station KTHS, Hot Springs, and the Fayetteville Broadcasting Co., Inc., operator of Station KGRH. Radio Broadcasting, Inc., wants to move KTHS to Little Rock, Ark., and operate on 1,000 kilocycles with 500 kilowatts power. KGRH wants the same frequency and power at Fayetteville.

KTHS now operates on 1,000 kilocycles at Hot Springs, using 10 kilowatts of power daytime, one kilowatt at night.

KGRH operates at Fayetteville on 14,500 kilocycles with 250 watts of power day and night. It is managed by Fred Stevenson.

The commission can decide between the two applicants or it can renew KTHS's license to continue operations at Hot Springs, commission officials said.

The hearings will be before Examiner Basil P. Coper who will submit findings and recommendations to the commission. They are expected to take about two weeks.

The first phase involves technical engineering data. After that each station will present information on its financial ability, programming any policy together with other evidence to support its case.

The 11,000 kilocycle frequency was allocated to Arkansas under an international radio agreement in 1941 was assigned to KTHS at Hot Springs. KTHS has been in operation at Hot Springs since 1933 and now is owned by a corporation headed by Wilson Ewing, Monroe, La., and John D. Ewing, Shreveport.

Several years ago Radio Broadcasting, Inc., proposed to move the 1,000 frequency to West Memphis, Ark., with 50 kilowatts of power, and to operate KTHS on another frequency.

The proposal was opposed by a Hot Springs group which organized as the Hot Springs Broadcasting company and proposed to take over the frequency and operate with 50 kilowatts.

First hearings in this case were in June 1949. At that time the commission denied all applications, which in effect left KTHS operating at Hot Springs on 1,000 kilocycles.

Later the license of KTHS expired and it filed its request to move to Little Rock as well as for a renewal of its Hot Springs license.

At about the same time, the Fayetteville station filed for the same wave length, as did James A. Noe, operator of station WNOC, New Orleans. Noe recently withdrew his application, leaving KTHS and KGRH as the contending parties.

Indicted U. S. Reds Want Lower Bail

New York, June 24—(UPI)—A bail of $10,000 was set for a group of jailed Communists who pressed their right to bail to a cut in bail which ranges up to $20,000 each.

Fourteen of the 111 persons arrested here early Wednesday have spent two nights in jail. Two who are in poor health have been freed in low bail. A 17th was arrested in Pittsburgh.

Judge Jerome A. Feltman of the U. S. Circuit Court of Appeals directed government and defense counsel to present written arguments on bail to him today. He reserved decision yesterday.

In Washington, Supreme Court Justice Robert H. Jackson took advantage yesterday of a recess for a stay of execution for the eleven Communists for contempt of court during their month trial in New York.

The convicted Red leaders scheduled to go to prison about July 1 for terms of three to 15 years, seek stay of sentence and continuance of bail until next July when they want to renew their fight against conviction. The Supreme court upheld the conviction on June 4.

The eleven are seeking Supreme court reconsideration of their case. Accused under the Smith act, they were convicted of June 4.

On the Riviera Is Saenger Feature Sunday

Danny Kaye, Gene Tierney and Corinne Calvet form a triple-threat star combination in "On the Riviera," the Technicolored musical feature which will open Sunday at the Saenger Theatre. In this Twentieth Century-Fox production, Kaye plays a dual role, that of a French love-rand hero and an American entertainer in a French night club on the Riviera, giving him the opportunity to sing, dance and make love to both Miss Tierney and Miss Calvet with equal abandon. The complications which arise from Kaye's look-alike role are the basis for the swift-paced story.

To get the lush backgrounds of the French Riviera, Producer Sol C. Seigel and Director Walter Lang sent special camera crews to the resort capitol of the world for the exterior scenes. These, combined with the lavish interiors in the picture, give it a splendor seldom achieved in a musical production.

The plot of "On the Riviera" gives Danny Kaye ample opportunity to indulge in his whimsical tomfoolery, quadruple scat singing, nonsensical jargon, pantomime and lyrical gibberish that has made the beloved comedian of people in many lands. Sylvia Fine, Danny's wife wrote four songs—"On the Riviera," "Popo The Puppet," "Rhythms of a New Romance"—especially for him and Jack Cole devised dance routines that set a new style in choreography. Kaye also does some of his famous impersonations in this lively musical farce, singing in the manner of Maurice Chevalier, Sir Harry Lauder, Jimmy Durante and others.

In her role as a wealthy, sophisticated French woman, the wife of Kaye in his role of Capitaine Duran, Gene Tierney has been given the glamour treatment. Her wardrobe, designed by Oleg Cassini, Gene's husband in real life, is a veritable fashion parade from her $5,000 French ball gown to a lemon yellow bathing suit. Corinne Calvet shows off her charms in costumes typical of the French musical halls, in her role as Kaye's night club partner in the story.

In addition to Kaye's singing and dancing, specialty numbers for "On the Riviera" are done by the dance team of Ethel and George Martin and "Buzz" Miller and by specialty dancers Ellen Ray and Gwyneth Verdon. The screen play based on a play by Rudolph Lothar and Hans Adler, was written by Valentine Davies and Phoebe and Henry Ephron from an adaptation by Jessie Ernst.

Wind and Rain Strikes the Midwest

The spring season made a windy and wet exit last night over areas in the mid-continent but summer bowed in with gentle June breezes in most parts of the country today.

The summer season officially started at 12:25 a.m. today will be the longest day of the year—more than 15 hours of daylight.

Winds of near tornadoic velocity whipped across northern Illinois, northern Indiana and parts of Texas last night. Extensive property damage was reported from the violent windstorm which lashed across Syder, Texas. A blinding dust storm accompanied the wind. Two persons were injured by flying debris. A highway restaurant was destroyed and an open air theater leveled. Strong winds also whipped Big Springs, Tex.

Heavy rain accompanied the strong winds that swept northwestern Indiana and northern and central Illinois. No injuries were reported. Many farm buildings were flattened by the gale in Put-in-Bay county, Indiana.

Three passengers in a Trans World Airlines plane were injured when the craft hit rough air over Peoria, Ill., last night. The four-engine plane made an unscheduled landing in Kansas City and the passengers were examined at a hospital. There were 81 passengers aboard the plane, which was on a scheduled non-stop flight from Chicago to Los Angeles.

Showers and thundershows hit areas from the Great Lakes region, Minnesota and the Dakotas southward to northern Texas. Heavy rain fell in Northern Illinois, southeastern Iowa, Kansas, southern Nebraska and northern Missouri.

It continued warm and humid over the southern states and generally cool over the northern half of the country.

Person. The group repeated the creed followed by the devotional reading given by the hostess. Prayer was led by Mrs. Otoe Roberts. The song of the month, "My Wild Irish Rose" was sung by the group.

A business session was held. Plans for the Visiting Day at the experiment Station were made. Plans were also made for the annual picnic in August.

Mrs. Henley assisted by Mrs. Hartfield gave an interesting demonstration on flower arrangements and making corsages.

The recreational leader led the group in games. Mrs. Lester, a visitor, won the game prize and Mrs. Ninemeyer won the prize package.

The hostess served refreshments to 8 members and two visitors, Mrs. Wier-Owens and Mrs. Lester.

The meeting adjourned to meet at the Fair Park July 17. Mrs. C. B. Chambliss will be hostess.

DOROTHY DIX

No Marriage in Sight

Dear Dorothy Dix: I have a daughter 25 years of age about whom I am much concerned. She is intelligent, good natured and well-mannered. But she is not pretty and seems to have no attraction for men and will probably never marry, yet if ever a girl was cut out for a home and all that goes with it she is. She has never had a boy friend or a date and I am afraid she never will. She has a very nice position now and in all probability will keep that for an indefinite period, but after that what.

MRS. B.

Answer: Parents can be funny sometimes. They expect their children to work for them at a salary no stranger would even look at. There are a lot of good things in the world besides wedding rings.

The thing for the girl who is unattractive to men to do is first to realize that she will never marry and put all thought of a Prince Charming coming her way out of her mind. She must face the certainty that she must stand on her own feet and provide for herself and safeguard her future.

She must decide what she wants to do and put her back and her heart into it and learn how to do the sort of work that commands a high price. She must learn how to save her money and how to invest it so that when the day comes when she wants to retire she can do so.

There is no sex in work. It is the work that counts. Any intelligent, able-bodied young woman has just as good a chance to succeed as a boy has, and there is no more reason why he should be wined and dined than she is about him.

In the past such a lot was almost worse than death. But that is all changed now, thank heaven. Every girl now has just the same chance of achieving a happy, free, independent life as a boy has, and her well-being no more depends upon her getting married than it does upon him marrying. In both cases marriage is a highly desirable state, provided they get the right mates, but it is purgatory if they don't. So, there you are, and there is no reason to feel that your daughter will have missed everything if she doesn't get a husband.

There is no reason to feel that your husband's present job, if any, is stationary and you have no future prospects, another job with better pay is your only solution.

IVY.

Answer: I hope you're in your right mind, but it doesn't sound like it to me. In the first place, marrying at your age is ridiculous and in the second place marrying someone you don't love at any age is the shortest cut to unhappiness I know of. Your reluctance to hurt someone's feelings is admirable, but you'd hurt this boy much more if you married him without loving him. Just tell him frankly how you feel about him, and that you intend to wait a few years before getting married, anyway. Bide your time, Ivy, until love really comes along, then you'll be awfully glad you waited.

Dorothy Dix cannot answer personal mail. She discusses the most serious problem in marriage in leaflet D-8, "Philandering." To obtain a copy, send 3 cents stamped, self-addressed envelope to Miss Dix in this newspaper, P. O. Box

Kroger's Reach for All-Time High

Cumulative sales of the Kroger Company during the month of June, 1951, were announced yesterday by H. Hall, President. This was the second consecutive period that sales of the retail grocery company exceeded $75,000,000, and total for the fifth period was $83,000,000.

Cumulative sales for the six periods of 1951, totaling $411,007, a 31 percent increase over sales of $301,226,000 for the same six periods of last year.

Mr. Hall said that he believes these record sales reflect the growing public acceptance of grocery stores. He added that a simplified annual report to Kroger's employees issued recently showed that the company's net profit last year amounted to only 1 1/4 cents of sales.

Average number of Kroger stores in operation during the sixth period of 1951 was 3034, compared with 2911 during the sixth period of 1950, a decrease of 6 percent.
